Sculptures & Statues

Bessie the Cow
Arby's parking lot, 3501 Milton Ave
Visit this fun fiberglass sculpture originally erected in 1966. This 16-foot tall, 20 foot long, one ton cow-lassus stood outside the Oasis until 2006, when the site was demolished for new construction. Moved just down the street, Bessie was given a new life - and a new paint job - and continues to stand over Janesville, providing a unique photo opportunity.

New Life Assembly of God Cross
New Life Assembly of God, 2416 N Wright Rd
Erected in 2013, this incredible cross stands 60 feet high and 40 feet wide and weighs 25,000 pounds. There are twelve commemorative benches around the patio with a 100-foot commemorative walkway. Three rose gardens surround the cross and patio, along with over 80 trees and shrubs and hundreds of tulips and daffodils.

Janesville Gazette Mural Sculpture
Janesville Gazette, 1 S Parker Dr
Constantino Nivola; 1970
Sculpted from sand and concrete, this incredible mural over the entrance to the Gazette building represents the progress of communication through the ages. The mural is divided into 33 panels, each weighing approximately one ton.

War of the Rebellion Monument
Lower Courthouse Park, 51 S Main St
The base of this monument says, "Rock County 1901 - Dedicated to the memory of her soldiers and sailors. War of the Rebellion, 1861-1865." The tall monument is topped by a statue of a Civil War soldier and weighs more than a ton.

Resilience Sculpture
Town Square Pedestrian Bridge, 65 S River St
Deedee Morrison, Alabama; 2019
This branching steel and tempered glass sculpture with LED lighting rises 28 feet above the Blain Gilbertson Family Heritage Bridge. With seating on both banks as well as on the bridge itself, the pedestrian bridge connects the east and west halves of Downtown Janesville's Town Square and was created as part of ARISE Now.

The Bubbler
Town Square, 65 S River St
This interactive water feature is part sculpture, part splash pad, part music and light show. For those unfamiliar with Wisconsin lingo, some locals use the word "bubbler" in place of "drinking fountain." The round shape, the water, and Wisconsin tradition all informed the name, chosen through a community contest. The 9-foot-tall metal sculpture includes electronically controlled water jets, colored lights, and music.

Spirit of the American Doughboy Statue
120 W Milwaukee St
E. M. Viquesney; 1920s-1930s
This sculpture is a pressed copper sculpture that was mass produced for communities throughout the United States in the 1920s and 30s, with about 140 sculptures remaining. It was presented to the city of Janesville by the Lions Club in honor of the men and women who served in WWI and includes the names of those who served.

Storybook Garden
Hedberg Public Library, 316 S Main St
The Friends of Hedberg Library and the Noon Lions Club created this garden of books, featuring a variety of sculptures in a park setting along the river.

39 Janesville Tank Company
The Armory, 10 S High St

The Wisconsin Historical Society marker #298 commemorates the 32nd Tank Company, which was headquartered at the Janesville National Guard armory in the 1930s. When the United States joined WWII, this company became the first of 330,000 Wisconsin residents to engage the enemy. The Janesville tank unit fought bravely alongside other American and Filipino soldiers in the Philippine islands until surrendering on April 9, 1942. As prisoners of war, the Janesville men participated in the infamous Bataan Death March. Of the original ninety-nine members of the unit, only thirty-five survived.

44 Black Hawk's Grove & Black Hawk War
2100 Palmer Dr

This two-sided Wisconsin Historical Society marker #262 is located on the Ice Age Trail between the Blackhawk Golf Course parking lot and East Racine St. It makes note of the 1832 conflict between Sauk leader Black Hawk and 1,000 followers, and US Army troops.

47 Burr Robbins Circus
920 Beloit Ave

Located along the Ice Age Trail by the parking lot at Dawson Softball Complex, the Wisconsin Historical Society marker #454 notes that this site served as the Spring Brook Farm winter quarters for the Burr Robbins Circus, once the third largest circus in America, from 1874-1888.

51 Route of Abraham Lincoln 1832 & 1859
5926 US Hwy 51

This Wisconsin Historical Society marker #93 commemorates two separate times Lincoln passed this way, first as part of the Illinois militia during the Black Hawk War, and again on his way to Janesville as a guest of William Tallman after delivering a political address in Beloit.

Murals

Rock Stars

The Exclusive Company, 1259 Milton Ave

Local record shop The Exclusive Company has had a series of paintings on the side of the building for many years. In 2017 they completed a mural "reboot," replacing the old mural with a new one that represents artists from different genres and eras. Artists include Johnny Cash, Nas, Kurt Cobain, Billie Holliday, Prince and Bob Dylan.

Heart of the City Outdoor: Water

Janesville Gazette, 1 S Parker Dr (back, visible from Parker Place)

Larry Schultz, Milton, WI; 2009

Part of the "Heart of the City Outdoor Art Campaign," each representing a decade during Janesville's early years and focusing on the important industries of that time, this vinyl printed mural represents 1840-50 and evokes how generations of Janesville citizens harnessed the power of water to manufacture goods, and how the city's economic success was dependent on this natural resource. Also on display is the historic Frances Willard Schoolhouse, once located along the Rock River and now residing at the Rock County Historical Society Campus.

Heart of the City Outdoor: Janesville Women's History

Rock County Courthouse, 51 S Main St

Ronald Perry Wick, Cherry Valley, IL; 2010

Part of the "Heart of the City Outdoor Art Campaign" representing Janesville's early years, this vinyl printed mural commemorates the contributions women in Rock County. It covers the years 1860 to 1890, when women began having a significant impact on the social and economic life of the Janesville community. At the center is an early suffragist and her young daughter. At the top is Rhoda Lavinia Goodell, the first woman Lawyer in Wisconsin, admitted to the Rock County bar in 1874. Next is Angie King, Wisconsin's third female attorney and perhaps the first woman in Wisconsin to win a political office by popular election. Above a depiction of Oaklawn Hospital is Nellie Tallman, whose work with the Janesville Associated Charities led to the founding of Janesville's first successful hospital. The Janesville Cotton Manufacturing Company is shown at the left with two female mill workers. In the 1870s, two-thirds of the labor force at the Cotton Mills was female. The books represent the first free public library in Janesville established by the Ladies Afternoon Club.

Two Horses

37 S Main St (visible from Court St)

Adorn Boutique, 37 S Main St (side, visible from Court St)

Jessie Willyerd and Tim Cahill; Art Infusion 2020

The members of this artist team are Class of 2003 graduates of Janesville Craig High School.

Origami Birds

Lark, 60 S Main St

Stephanie Krellwitz; Art Infusion 2020

The freelance artist's first large scale mural, the origami birds and tree branch are reminiscent of Lark's logo and the paper cranes in the window.

Keep Looking Up

111 W Milwaukee St (back, visible from Dodge St)

James Richter, Janesville, WI; 2020

This uplifting, whimsical addition to downtown features three stories of fun, with balloons and clouds.

Sharing Aloha

808 Cheesecake, 119 W Milwaukee St (back, visible from Dodge St)

Rob Reyes, Janesville, WI; 2021

Located in the alley on the back of 808 Cheesecake, this lush, tropical mural was painted by the owner. Both the mural and the shop offer a taste of the Hawaiian Islands.

Waves of Giving

Hometown Pharmacy, 21 S Jackson St (back, visible from Franklin St)

Jaime Brown with Karim Jabbari; Art Infusion 2020

This colorful, geometric mural is full of symbolism. The arrows on the top represent the forward thinking of the city while the zigzags are the river running through downtown. The diamonds on the right are a stalk of wheat, from Janesville's early days as an agricultural community. The horizontal bars on the bottom are for the fallen tree trunks during the city's lumber/industrial period. The vertical lines represent train tracks, and the intersecting purple circles are a woman looking down and working on something. She could be making a quilt or dinner. The woman is often the heartbeat of the home, and homes and families are the heartbeat of the community.

Midnight Snack aka Blue Barry

Home Again Consignments, 215 W Milwaukee St (back, visible from alley)

Bigshot Robot (David Mark Zimmerman), Milwaukee, WI; Art Infusion 2020

This whimsical mural wraps around two sides in the alley behind the building and is best viewed on foot. What shall Blue Barry's snack be - a wish bone, dog bone, fish bone - maybe a trombone?

Formations on Jackson

Forward Foundation, 14 S Jackson St

Nathan Brown, Nashville, TN; Art Infusion 2021

This beautiful geometric mural is a combination of strong shapes and vibrant color gradients.

Butterfly

314 W Milwaukee St (side, visible from Jackson St)

This mural depicts a butterfly emerging from a chrysalis and flying away. The oldest of the murals on this list, artist details are unknown.

Janesville Icons

509 W Milwaukee St (side, visible from High St)

James Richter, Janesville, WI; 2016

This mural depicts seven Chevrolet models between 1955 and 1960 in remembrance of the Janesville General Motors assembly plant. It is on what was known as "The Circuit," a driving route that many Janesville residents cruised in their youth.

The Adventurer

Ace Hardware, 200 S River St

Bigshot Robot (David Mark Zimmerman), Milwaukee, WI; Art Infusion 2021

The Adventurer is a light-hearted addition to Janesville's downtown. Covering one side of the Harris Ace Hardware building with vibrant colors, the mural is best seen from a little distance - even across the river! The mural symbolizes the adventuring spirit of the indigenous people, who had lived here, and the people who visit the downtown on their own adventures.

Dancing on the Stars

Janesville Performing Arts Center, 408 S Main St

Ruben Aguirre, Chicago, IL; Art Infusion 2021

This dynamic mural on the side of the Janesville Performing Arts Center depicts movement expressed by dancers. The artist interpreted pieces of the City of Janesville flag: on the left side is the tree and the suns represent the four stars. The dancers represent the Performing Arts Center.

American Flag

Whiskey Ranch, 24 N Main St

Nancy Platner, Edgerton, WI; 2016

This 15-foot by 60-foot patriotic mural is located on the Wall St side of the Whiskey Ranch. It was the first large scale mural for this artist and took over 80 hours to complete.

In History We Trust

101 E Milwaukee St

Jeff Henriquez, Newark, NJ; Art Infusion 2020

The locket worn by the woman on the left bears the image of Harriet Tubman, a nod to the abolitionist sentiment in Janesville, which hosted speakers Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass in 1859, as well as the nearby Milton House, a documented Underground Railroad stop that is now a museum. The large and small feathers in the native American woman's hair represent elders' support, guidance, and protection for youth. The wolf represents running with a pack or tribe, and the galaxy of stars above symbolize infinity. Wood violets are the Wisconsin state flower.

Black Hawk

29 South, 29 S Main St

Jeff Henriquez, Newark, NJ; 2019

Depicting the artist's interpretation of Black Hawk, a leader and warrior of the Sauk American Indian tribe in what is now Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, this incredible mural was created with spray paint in just 10 days. It also incorporates an image of Miracle, the White Buffalo, who was born outside Janesville in the 1990s and was a sacred Native American symbol who drew visitors from around the world. A Native American ceremony marked the mural's completion.

Flower Garden

Olde Towne Mall, 20 S Main St (back, visible from Water St)

CJ Hungeman, Chicago, IL; Art Infusion 2021

This quirky, hand-painted floral mural is located high on the back of Olde Town Mall and can be seen from either side of Town Square, as well as the Court Street bridge. It incorporates flowers native to southern Wisconsin.

Bright Futures

Boys & Girls Club, 200 W Court St (visible from River St)

James Richter, Janesville, WI; 2021

This inspiring mural includes children, education, sports, nature, and dreams of the future.

Doty Mill Alley Janesville

Riverfront Centre, 15 W Milwaukee St (side, visible from alley off River St)

James Richter, Janesville; 2018

This mural is reminiscent of vintage postcards and celebrates Janesville, including our proud General Motors and Parker Pen legacy, the historic Lincoln-Tallman House, and present-day wonders like the Rotary Botanical Garden and the Rock Aqua Jays waterski show team.

River of Life

Rock River Charter School, 31 W Milwaukee St (side, visible from River St)

Ivan Roque, Miami, FL; Art Infusion 2021

This incredible 100-foot-long mural features a flowing river with an owl for wisdom, flowers symbolizing transformation and vines representing time and energy. The thorns represent the obstacles in life that we go through that make us who we are.

"Art enables us to find ourselves and lose ourselves at the same time."

- Thomas Merton

Art Infusion

Janesville's Art Infusion event held annually in downtown Janesville in early September is a celebration of both temporary and permanent art. Since its inception in 2011, it has continued to evolve and bring attention to the community, its attractions and especially the downtown area. In addition to a chalk art competition, there are opportunities for attendees to draw for fun and art classes for Janesville students. In 2020, a painted wall mural component was added and continues to be a highlight of the event. For more information visit janesvillecvb.com/artinfusion.
